CATHOLIC CHURCH IN THE WORLD

POPE FRANCIS CATECHESIS

6th June: Confirmation 3: For the growth of the Church

Dear brothers and sisters, good morning!

Continuing the reflection on the sacrament of Confirmation, let us consider the effects that the gift of the Holy Spirit makes mature in the confirmed, leading them to become, in turn, a gift for others. The Holy Spirit is a gift. Recall that when the bishop gives us the anointing with oil, he says: "Receive the Holy Spirit that is given to you as a gift". That gift of the Holy Spirit enters and fructifies us, so that we can then give it to others. Always receive to give: never receive and keep things inside, as if the soul were a warehouse. No: always receive to give. God's graces are received to give them to others. This is the life of the Christian. It is therefore of the Holy Spirit, therefore, to decentralize ourselves from our "I" to open ourselves to the "us" of the community: to receive to give. We are not at the centre: we are an instrument of that gift for others.

Completing the resemblance to Christ in the baptized, Confirmation unites them more strongly as living members of the mystical body of the Church (see Rite of Confirmation, No. 25). The Church's mission in the world proceeds through the contribution of all those who are part of it. Some think that in the Church there are masters: the Pope, the bishops, the priests, and then there are the others. No: the Church we are all! And we all have the responsibility of sanctifying one another, of caring for others. We are all the Church. Everyone has his work in the Church, but we all are. We must think of the Church as a living organism, composed of people we know and walk with, and not as an abstract and distant reality. We are the Church that walks, the Church is we who today are in this square. We: this is the Church. The Confirmation binds to the universal Church spread all over the earth, however, actively involving the confirmed in the life of the particular Church to which they belong, with the Bishop at the head, who is the successor of the Apostles.

This is why the Bishop is the original minister of Confirmation (cf. Lumen Gentium, 26), because he inserts the confirmed in the Church. The fact that, in the Latin Church, this sacrament is ordinarily conferred by the Bishop highlights its "effect of uniting more closely to the Church, to its apostolic origins and to its mission to witness Christ, those who receive it" (Catechism of the Catholic Church, 1313).

And this ecclesial incorporation is well signified by the sign of peace that concludes the ritual of crismation. The Bishop says, in fact, to each confirmed: "Peace be with you". Recalling the greeting of Christ to the disciples on Easter evening, filled with the Holy Spirit (cf. Jn 20: 19-23) - we have heard -, these words illuminate a gesture that "expresses ecclesial communion with the Bishop and with all the faithful" (see CCC, 1301). We, in Confirmation, receive the Holy Spirit and peace: that peace that we must give to others. But let's think: everyone thinks about their own parish community, for example. There is the Confirmation ceremony, and then we give ourselves peace: the Bishop gives it to Confirmation, and then to Mass, we exchange it with each other. This means harmony, it means charity among us, it means peace. But then what happens? We go out and start to talk about others, to "peel" the others. The talk begins. And the rumours are wars. This is not right! If we have received the sign of peace by the power of the Holy Spirit, we must be men and women of peace, and not destroy, with the tongue, the peace that the Spirit has made. Poor Holy Spirit, the work he has with us, with this habit of chatter! Think well: chatter is not a work of the Holy Spirit, it is not a work of the unity of the Church. The chatter destroys what God does. But please: let's stop talking!

Confirmation is received only once, but the spiritual dynamism aroused by holy unction is persevering in time. We will never cease to fulfil the mandate to emit everywhere the good scent of a holy life, inspired by the fascinating simplicity of the Gospel.

Nobody receives Confirmation only for himself, but to cooperate in the spiritual growth of others. Only in this way, opening ourselves and going out of ourselves to meet our brothers, can we really grow and not only deceive ourselves of doing it. What we receive as a gift from God must in fact be given - the gift is to give - so that it is fruitful, and not instead buried because of selfish fears, as the parable of the talents teaches (cf. Mt 25: 14-30). Even the seed, when we have the seed in hand, but it is not to put it there, in the closet, to leave it there: it is to sow it. We must give the gift of the Holy Spirit to the community. I urge confirmations not to "cage" the Holy Spirit, not to resist the wind that blows to push them to walk in freedom, not to stifle the burning Fire of charity that leads to consume the life for God and for the brothers. May the Holy Spirit grant us all the apostolic courage to communicate the Gospel, with works and words, to all those we meet on our way. With works and words, but good words: those that build. No the words of the chatter that destroy. Please, when you leave the church, think that the peace received is to give it to others: not to destroy it with chatter. Do not forget this.
